

THE CHRISTIAN ALERT
April 5, 2021

In Psalm 26:8 we read, “LORD, I love the house where you live, the place where your glory dwells.”

We all need supportive relationships. The giant redwood trees of California tower as much as three hundred feet in the air. A park ranger said, “You’d think such tall trees would require very deep roots. Actually, redwood trees have a very shallow root system, designed to capture all the surface moisture possible.” The roots spread out in all directions, and as a result, all the roots of the many trees are intertwined. They are locked together so that when a storm strikes, all the trees sustain one another. You never see a redwood tree standing alone. They need one another to survive. So it is with Christians.

We thank our God of love and compassion for the ties that bind our hearts in Christian love and for this church where we feel cherished and supported.
